DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 8-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. These claims are inferential and insufficiently positively recite structural features and relationships to support a clear structure basis by which applicant's invention can be compared with the prior art. Since the claims are lacking in adequate positive recitation of the essential structural features and relationships of the device, it is difficult to determine with any degree of certainty, the precise structural combination intended to be covered by each of these claims. All essential structural elements should be positively recited, and the structural relationships between these elements and parts which provide for a useful and operative device should be positively and clearly set forth. In addition, the phrases such as "considers . . ." (claim 11), "especially" (claim 12) and "for example" (claim 13) are vague and indefinite. Claims 11 and 14, it is not clear what is claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 8-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hess (US 5 657 230). Hess discloses a means for controlling torque in an internal combustion engine by adjusting the torque requirement in dependence upon load and rpm (see abstract, col.4, lines 5-40, Col. 3, lines 55-col. 6, line 26).
